Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 26 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Dry and rather mild with sunny spells and light winds.

Today:
Chilly start, with a frost in some rural places. Then staying dry with sunny spells, light winds and only patchy cloud, the cloud mainly but not exclusively across western hills. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Areas of cloud will persist across western hills, before generally cloudier conditions arrive late tonight. A slight frost is possible, especially for eastern areas. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Saturday:
Mostly cloudy, with limited bright or sunny intervals, and light winds. Many places will remain dry, although some patchy light rain and drizzle will arrive, mostly across the Pennines. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
It will often be cloudy, especially along the coast where patchy mist and fog could arrive, but still some sunny spells will develop, particularly inland. Temperatures remaining near average.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.